Report from the Chair

It is a privilege to report to you at the end of my first year as chair of the Law Foundation of BC board of governors. I assumed this role in January 2012, succeeding Mary Mouat of Victoria, who served as foundation chair for the past two years. During her six years on the foundation board, Mary served on a number of committees, including Policy and Planning, New Grants, Child Welfare Fund, and Finance and Administration. She dealt with a number of challenging issues during her tenure, and led the foundation always with good humour and wisdom. Her thoughtful support of staff was especially appreciated.

The instability of the world economy, particularly the ongoing low interest rate environment, has affected the Law Foundation’s income. For four years, the foundation has had to draw on its grant stabilization fund to maintain funding for our grantees. In 2011, this draw-down amounted to $4.9 million. While this was slightly less than anticipated at the beginning of the year, it nonetheless means that finances are becoming tighter, and, unless rates increase in the near future, decisions to reduce funding may become a possibility.

Interest rates are significant because the rate paid to the foundation on lawyers’ pooled trust accounts is pegged to the prime rate.

In 2012, the Law Foundation anticipates having to again draw down the grant stabilization fund, perhaps by up to a further $7 million. In the meantime, the foundation will likely be unable to fund new initiatives beyond our current continuing programs and projects.

Fortunately, as a result of previous Law Foundation boards’ foresight, the fund had been built up to a healthy level, which has allowed us to continue funding all our continuing programs and maintain project funding without cuts. This will continue to be the foundation’s goal in the future.

The foundation is grateful to those financial institutions that provide competitive rates of return on lawyers’ pooled trust accounts. We particularly want to acknowledge the favourable agreements provided by HSBC Bank Canada, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank of Canada, TD Canada Trust and Vancouver City Savings Credit Union. We would also like to thank members of the profession who choose institutions accordingly, as this will ensure that the foundation receives the highest possible rates of return.

The foundation’s mandate to fund legal education, legal research, legal aid, law reform and law libraries is fulfilled by funding continuing programs and one-time projects, both large and small, that promote the rule of law and a just society.

In 2011, the foundation assessed 285 applications for funding, and funded 89 continuing programs and 70 projects (13 large, 10 small, 15 on-track and 32 other grants). These grants totalled over $20 million. Of this amount, almost $18 million was allocated to continuing programs.

Highlights in 2011 included:

- The Executive Directors’ Roundtable — The Law Foundation brought together the executive directors of all of our continuing grantees to discuss issues facing them, how to meet the legal needs of the people of BC, and how the foundation can best support them.
- Supervising Lawyers’ Conference — The lawyers who supervise Law Foundation-funded programs met to exchange ideas and concerns, and to help strengthen their network of support.
- A review of grantee year-ends — We reconciled the fiscal years of grantees with the Law Foundation grant years. This should make it easier for all concerned to track the use of foundation funds.
- An update of the Law Foundation website, including the introduction of online applications — I urge you to take a look at our new website to gain an appreciation for all the activities that the foundation’s funds support. On our home page is a map of the province with pins identifying the various organizations that we fund throughout BC.
- The formation of a family law working group — the foundation recognizes that family law problems are among the most pressing faced by the people of BC. This group will report back in 2012, with ideas for both no-cost ways to address the issues, and further ideas for when funds become available again in the future.
- A discussion began about other sources of revenue.

Most importantly, significant work continued to be done in 2011 by Law Foundation-funded grantees:

- 75,000 people received legal information, advice, summary service or representation from Law Foundation-funded advocates or lawyers, in all regions of the province. These services covered a variety of legal problems, including poverty law, disability, income security, housing, debt, family law and child protection law.
- Clicklaw, coordinated by Courthouse Libraries BC, links to 1,300 resources from 25 legal and public legal education organizations, and is now the key online contact point for people seeking legal information. Last year, over 99,000 people accessed information through the portal, and the number grows monthly as it becomes better known. The Clicklaw HelpMap directs people to legal services at over 800 locations in the province.
Finally, the Law Foundation’s 105 continuing and on-track programs continue their work, as described in this report, including everything from legal aid provided by the Legal Services Society, through law reform undertaken by the British Columbia Law Institute and scholarships for law students, to the Debate and Speech Association Law Foundation Cup Debates on legal topics.

Also new to the foundation board in January 2012 is Anita Dalakoti, who was also appointed by the Attorney General. Governor Dalakoti is a financial advisor with Sun Life, and has an MBA from Durham University in the UK, as well as a Masters degree in Russian Literature from Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi, India. Prior to immigrating to Canada in July 2000, she lived and worked in China and for the Australian government. Her community involvement includes the Canadian Disabled Individuals Association, Rotary Club and the Canada-India Foundation. She speaks several languages, including Hindi, Urdu, Mandarin, Russian and French.

Finally, at the staff level, an important member of Law Foundation staff retired this year. Daphne Morrison served as a program director of the Law Foundation for 12 years. During that time, she was responsible for a number of important initiatives, including the Child Welfare Fund, the Public Legal Education and Information Working Group, and legal education in schools. Her quiet, insightful presence will be missed, as will her knowledge of community organizations around the province. We are pleased to have Janna Cumming, formerly a staff lawyer at the Legal Services Society LawLINE, join us.

In closing, I would like to thank our board of governors for their ongoing commitment to improving access to justice for the people of British Columbia. I appreciate everyone’s commitment to taking up the challenge during these difficult financial times, as we strive to be wise stewards of the Law Foundation’s funds. Supported by hard-working foundation staff, we will continue to ensure that foundation funds are used in the most effective way possible to fulfill the Law Foundation’s mandate.

Margaret Sasges
Chair 2011
The mandate, mission statement, vision and values have been adopted by the board of governors as policy guidelines. In 2009, the board set strategic priorities for the next five years. These are the principles upon which funding decisions are based.

Mandate
Our legislative mandate is to fund legal education, legal research, legal aid, law reform and law libraries for the benefit of British Columbians.

Mission Statement
To advance and promote a just society governed by the rule of law, through leadership, innovation and collaboration.

Vision
A society where access to justice is protected and advanced.

Values
- Integrity
- Diversity
- Respect
- Sustainability

Strategic Priorities 2010–2015
- Maintain and improve Law Foundation finances.
- Provide support for Law Foundation grantees.
- Continue the ongoing evaluation of Law Foundation programs and projects.
- Research and address gaps in access to justice in BC — sectoral and substantive.
- Develop new programs and initiatives.

Purpose
British Columbia led the way in 1969 when it established the first law foundation in North America. Since then, every other jurisdiction in North America has followed BC’s lead by establishing a law foundation.

The Law Foundation of BC is a non-profit foundation created by legislation to receive and distribute the interest on clients’ funds held in lawyers’ pooled trust accounts maintained in financial institutions. Pooled trust accounts are used to hold client funds for short periods, until it becomes feasible to distribute those monies to the client or others. Typically, some funds held in this way are purchase monies in real estate transactions, while others are retainers, settlement proceeds, estate funds, etc.

Because of the difficulty and cost of ascertaining how much interest in pooled trust accounts was attributable to each client’s funds, and because the amount of interest related to each client was usually small, for many years financial institutions paid no interest on these accounts, although the total funds in the pooled account might be very substantial. As a result, the financial institutions profited from the use of the funds in the pooled trust accounts without charge.

British Columbia lawyers pioneered a change to this practice in 1969 when they persuaded the provincial government to enact legislation requiring financial institutions to pay interest on these pooled trust accounts to the Law Foundation, which would then use the interest to benefit the public of British Columbia.

The legislation directed the Law Foundation to distribute these funds in five areas:
- legal education
- law reform
- legal research
- law libraries
- legal aid

The foundation recognizes that, while its objects are legal in nature, the income is to be allocated to programs that will benefit the general public of British Columbia.

From its inception through 2011, the Law Foundation has approved grants totalling almost 460 million to support important law-related programs in British Columbia.

Administration
The Law Foundation is administered by a board of governors (the board), which is responsible for making all decisions concerning grants. It has 18 volunteer members:
- the Attorney General (or his/her appointee);
- 3 persons, not lawyers, appointed by the Attorney General;
- 12 members of the Law Society or the judiciary appointed by the benchers to represent geographical areas of the province; and
- 2 members of the Law Society appointed by the BC Branch, Canadian Bar Association.
The Law Foundation is independent of the government, the Law Society and the BC Branch, Canadian Bar Association, although its governors are appointed by these bodies. The board has five standing committees:

- Fellowships and Research (Formerly Bursary, Scholarship and Fellowship)
- Policy and Planning
- Special Needs Fund
- Finance and Administration

The board and the committees meet regularly during the year. A staff of 12 assists the board.

How Grants Are Made

The Law Foundation’s funds are used for the purposes of legal education, legal research, legal aid, law reform and law libraries. A grant application must fall within one or more of these categories to be considered for funding support, and it must establish that it will result in a clear benefit to the people of British Columbia. Grants are normally restricted to non-profit organizations.

The foundation sets its grant budget and funding guidelines on an annual basis. Those seeking grant support are urged to discuss their proposals with foundation staff before committing time and resources to put together funding requests. If a project appears to fit within the mission statement, program objectives and funding guidelines for that year, a formal proposal with more detailed information will be requested.

Application deadline dates can be obtained by contacting the Law Foundation.

Programs and Projects Funded in 2011

The Law Foundation provides support for the law-related programs and projects described in the Annual Report.

Grants are divided into Continuing Programs and Projects. For reporting purposes, they are listed in the Annual Report under one of the Law Foundation’s five statutorily mandated objectives (see chart). However, many of the organizations’ activities fall under more than one of the mandated areas.

Within each sub-section, grants are listed from highest to lowest dollar amounts, rather than alphabetically by name.

Please note: This year, the foundation implemented work to align its program grants with the fiscal years of several organizations. As a result, some programs received more or less than one 12-month grant. In these cases, the entry will include the total funds paid to the group and note in parentheses the time period covered by the grant.

Law Foundation Work with BC Law Schools

This year, several Law Foundation-supported developments at BC law schools have come to fruition.

The University of British Columbia opened a new law school building in September 2011. The foundation contributed $12 million in matching grants to the approximately $56-million-dollar project. The new facility includes a mix of classrooms and large lecture halls, along with a new state-of-the-art law library. Thanks to the Law Foundation’s contribution, the BC Law Institute, Law Students’ Legal Advice Program, Pro Bono Students Canada, and the International Centre for Criminal Law Reform all have rent-free space in the new building.

The University of Victoria was granted $6 million to support renovations to the law school. Modifications to the law library, built in 1980, were designed to augment research capabilities and respond to the changing technological needs of today’s students. The renovations also created new office space and teaching areas for the school’s clinical and graduate programs, and included changes to the main lecture hall that incorporated modern technology and made it easily accessible to students with disabilities.

Thompson Rivers University (TRU) in Kamloops opened its new law school in September 2011 — the first new law school in Canada in over 30 years, with a first-year class of 75 students.

The foundation funded initial research into the development of the law library and the faculty’s first entrance scholarships, as well as providing project money for student groups. TRU plans to establish the model for the twenty-first century faculty of law — primarily through the use of technology. All students and faculty are connected by an intranet, exams will be delivered to and written on laptops, and the library is primarily electronic.

PovNet

PovNet is an online resource for front-line community and settlement workers throughout British Columbia. PovNetters share information, resources, referrals and strategies about casework. The website and Twitter and Facebook feeds provide the general public with up-to-date information about anti-poverty issues.

Since PovNet opened its virtual doors in 1997, advocates and community workers have increasingly become more proficient at using e-mail lists and the website, and taking online courses on PovNetU, mainly because they have found they need PovNet to do their work and now identify it as a crucial resource.

PovNet’s community of users is varied. One person might get information to teach a class from the website, while another might use the Events Calendar to find details of an anti-poverty workshop at a local friendship centre or go to our Job Postings to see what’s available. Many people look for local legal help using the “Find an Advocate” maps.

Both urban and rural community workers participate in the e-mail lists, take online courses and use the website. But the options for face-to-face interaction are more complicated when you don’t live in an urban centre, and here is where PovNet’s online networking tools become crucial.

PovNet, in short, is a communications commons. PovNetters are using technology for their own purposes, to bring information to their communities. Their use of that information becomes a powerful tool for furthering access to justice in British Columbia.

Independent Auditor’s Report

December 31, 2011

To the Governors
The Law Foundation of British Columbia

Report on the Financial Statements
We have audited the accompanying financial statements of The Law Foundation of British Columbia, which comprise the statements of financial position as at December 31, 2011, December 31, 2010 and January 1, 2010 and the statements of changes in net assets, operations and cash flows for the years ended December 31, 2011 and December 31, 2010 and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors’ Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the foundation’s preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the foundation’s internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained in our audits is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion
In our opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The Law Foundation of British Columbia as at December 31, 2011, December 31, 2010 and January 1, 2010 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years ended December 31, 2011 and December 31, 2010 in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations.

Notes to Financial Statements

The Law Foundation of British Columbia

Years ended December 31

1. Nature of Activities
The Law Foundation of British Columbia (the foundation) was established in 1969 under the Legal Profession Act of British Columbia as a tax-exempt not-for-profit organization to receive and distribute interest on clients’ trust funds held in lawyers’ pooled trust accounts. The foundation is administered by a board of governors who are responsible for distributing these funds, and related investment and other income, to provide legal aid, legal research, law reform, legal education and law libraries for the benefit of the general public of British Columbia. The foundation also periodically administers other funds and programs.

2. Significant Accounting Policies and Adoption of Accounting Standards for Not-for-Profit Organizations
These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations, as set forth in Section III of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants Handbook — Accounting. The new standards have been applied retrospectively.

These financial statements are the first financial statements prepared in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations. Management has elected to designate all investments to be measured at fair value, which is consistent with the accounting policy in place at the time of transition, being January 1, 2010.

Except for the additional disclosure of amounts owed to government entities, as shown on the statement of financial position, the adoption of the new accounting standards has had no impact on the previously reported assets, liabilities and net assets of the foundation and accordingly there has been no restatement of previously reported amounts at the transition date.

These financial statements reflect the following significant accounting policies:

Cash Basis — Interest on Lawyers’ Pooled Trust Accounts
The foundation uses the cash basis of reporting interest earned on lawyers’ pooled trust accounts.

The foundation assumes that solicitors who hold funds in trust for or on account of clients comply strictly with Section 62 of the Legal Profession Act and Part 3 Division 7 of the Rules of the Law Society of British Columbia. These rules require that interest earned on funds held in lawyers’ pooled trust accounts be remitted to the foundation.

Property and Equipment
Expenditures on property and equipment are capitalized and amortized on a straight-line basis as follows:

- Leasehold improvements term of lease
- Furniture and equipment 5 years
- Computers and accessories 3 years

For property and equipment, except leasehold improvements, one-half the normal amortization is recorded in the year the asset is acquired.

Investment Income and Operating Expenses
Investment income and operating expenses are accounted for on an accrual basis.

Program and Project Grants Approved
The foundation expenses grants in the current year that provide annual operating funding to organizations covering 12-month periods beginning in the current and subsequent calendar years, plus grants for special projects that may be payable over several years. Grants are reflected as an expense that reduces the grant stabilization fund as they are approved by the foundation’s board of governors. Grants that are not yet paid are reflected as grants payable.

All approved grants contain restrictions on the use of the funds that may result in a portion of the grants payable being withheld, or grants that have been disbursed may be refunded. Grants payable are reversed when the foundation becomes aware that the funds are no longer required or when grant conditions have not been met. Grants refunded to the foundation are reported on a cash basis.

Grants made that are conditional on the receipt of matching funds by the grantee are included in program and project grants approved and grants payable. Unmatched grants may be reversed, transferred to other programs or projects, or the matching condition may be waived, as subsequently approved by the foundation.

Expenditures on programs that are operated by the foundation are included in program and project grants approved as they are disbursed.

Investments
Investments are recorded at market value. Gains and losses arising from changes in the market value of investments are recorded as they occur. Transactions are reported based on their settlement date.

Restricted and Administered Funds
a) Child Welfare Fund
The Child Welfare Fund is an externally restricted grant that is being reported as both income and expense as qualifying expenses are incurred or grants are awarded, in accordance with the deferral method of accounting. Grants not yet paid are grouped with the foundation’s grants payable.
b) Legal Services Society/Law Foundation Research Fund (research fund)

As the foundation administers, but does not exclusively control the expenditures from the research fund, direct expenditures and grants approved are treated as a reduction of the fund. Grants not yet paid are grouped with the foundation’s grants payable. Interest is added annually to the fund.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of income and expenses during the reported period. Actual results could differ from the estimates.

Statement of Cash Flows

The statement of cash flows is prepared on a net cash basis, and cash flows from operating activities are presented using the direct method.

3. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The foundation has adopted the recommendations of Section 3856 of Part II of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants Handbook dealing with financial instruments. The foundation’s financial instruments consist of cash, investments, accounts payable and grants payable. The foundation values its cash and investments at fair value on a held-for-trading basis. The foundation reports its accounts payable and grants payable at amortized cost.

Any change in fair value is brought in to income or expense as it occurs. The foundation’s investments are the only financial instruments with a significant difference between cost and fair value.

The foundation’s equity fund investments are subject to market risk. Its fixed income fund investments are subject to market and credit risk, bank deposits are subject to credit risk and yields are subject to changes in prevailing interest rates. The foundation’s exposure to currency risk is indicated by its ownership of international bonds and debentures, as described in note 4. The foundation does not engage in hedge transactions. As the majority of the foundation’s investments consist of pooled funds, it is the opinion of management that the foundation is not exposed to liquidity or cash-flow risk with respect to its investments, nor is it subject to significant concentrations of credit risk.

6. CHILD WELFARE FUND
The BC Ministry of Children and Family Development granted the foundation $1 million in 2004, an additional $2 million in 2006 and $124,000 in 2008 to develop innovative proposals consistent with the guiding principles of the Child, Family and Community Service Act, to expand the use of alternative dispute resolution in child welfare — particularly for Aboriginal children and families. Those grants have now been spent.

In 2008, the foundation granted $350,000 to the Child Welfare Fund, of which $184,319 was returned to the foundation in 2011.

In 2009, a $50,000 grant was received from the BC Representative for Children and Youth for the purpose of child welfare evaluation and research, of which $20,000 was unspent at the end of the year.

The fund comprises:

7. LEGAL SERVICES SOCIETY/LAW FOUNDATION RESEARCH FUND (RESEARCH FUND)
The Legal Services Society of BC and the foundation established the research fund with a grant of $1,000,000 each, pursuant to a deed of trust dated March 31, 2008. The purpose of the research fund is to support research on and evaluation of legal aid and other access-to-justice programs to enhance the quality of and access to justice for British Columbians. The research fund is administered by the foundation, and distribution of the funds is approved by an advisory committee consisting of one nominee from the Legal Services Society, the foundation, and the Notary Foundation. Investment income earned on unexpended funds is added to the research fund.

9. GRANT STABILIZATION RESERVE
The foundation has a goal of insulating continuing programs from fluctuations in the foundation’s income that result from changes in the prime rate and the balances in lawyers’ pooled trust accounts that generate income to the foundation. To accomplish this goal, the foundation has built up a stabilization fund that declines in years in which the foundation’s net income before grants approved is less than the grants approved, and increases when net income before grants approved is greater than the grants approved.

10. INVESTMENT INCOME (NET)
Investment income (net) comprises:

11. UNCLAIMED TRUST FUNDS AND OTHER INCOME
Unclaimed Trust Funds
Under the Law Society of British Columbia’s (the society) unclaimed trust fund procedures, lawyers submit unclaimed trust funds to the society. The society holds the funds for five years before remitting the money to the foundation. The total received for 2011 was $253,988 [2010 — $122,979].
Other Income

In 2007, the Law Society of British Columbia Pro Bono Funding Task Force (the task force) recommended that the society allocate a portion of annual lawyers’ practice fees to fund pro bono services. The task force noted that the foundation was uniquely well suited to determining recipients of pro bono grant funds, and the benchers decided to transfer one percent of the general fund portion of annual lawyers’ practice fees to the foundation to be used for funding pro bono programs. The total received for 2011 was $152,650 [2010 — $137,660].

In 2011, the foundation completed work to align the foundation’s program grants with the fiscal years of several organizations, resulting in a one-time net increase in approved grants of $1,939,996, and an anticipated net decrease in approved grants of just over $1,000,000 in 2012.

13. COMMITMENT
